100 of the World's Great Artists

Working under the advice of archaeologists and historians of wide renown, have contributed the choicest products of their skill and genius to produce this GRAND TRIUMPH OF ARTISTIC BEAUTY AND PERFECTION IN HISTORICAL DETAIL. These pictures are not mere reproduction of medieval frescoes and more or less familiar modern photographs, inserted at random; they have been especially made to illustrate selected texts in accordance with the matured belief of the greatest living theologians and have been placed alongside the verses which they illustrate.

Polishing Coral.

Although Venice is a center for tourist trade in coral and shell cameos, coral itself is neither gathered nor worked there. The manufacture is confined to Torre del Greco. Polishing coral in quantities is an interesting feature of the work. It is placed in a small bag of strong, raw linen together with crushed pumice stone, and the bag is shaken in a special tube with a hole for drainage under a small column of water. When the coral is well pumiced it is washed and passed into a clean bag. Instead of the pumice the so-called "pulimento" (red or white) is used, and the former operation is repeated, first without water, then with a little and finally with much water, when the coral has become brilliant. What the "pulimento" is the inhabitants of Torre del Greco, while so proud and jealous of their industry, have never taken the trouble to find out, as, indeed, what the "acqua ossigenata" (hydrogen peroxide) is, which is used to change the color of the coral, from when extracted from the sea, to red. As for the "pulimento," it is not different from that which the jewelers use to polish precious stones.—Exchange.
